The proposal include, defend and generate the core idea and the companion structure of long term living into the landscape. The structure is consisting of a wooden deck engulfing a tree and a cubic shape cabin hut. It is tended to eliminate the gesture of the architect or the architect itself. The outcome looks as it is a structure aroused on the landscape because of necessity. But, to the contrary, it sustains and proclaim the human ability to override the essential needs of life and seek the possibilities of meditation and the envisagement while being into the nature through the length of a day or, further more, the changes of the seasons. IS
