We can depart our meditation interest from an established and ordinary course and thing, instead, of the possibility of creating a form, executing a spatial gesture, that is strongly resembling, having the qualities and the futures, of the form of the enclosure, the structure made to protect the animals whenever situated into a hostile environment during the night. It is a shelter for the night, a pathway into a womb, an open and closed barrier, a see through limit where the inhabitant can stay, act, react having as a navigator this peculiar sence of belonging and belonging not, of staying into and staying at the open, of expecting a difference or creating a desire. IS
