

INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION OF IDEAS FOR THE DESIGN OF AN INFO-POINT PAVILION

The Cultural Association “Il Tamarindo” announces the first international competition of ideas to design a pavilion for the info-point Nausicaa Festival – Festival of the Mediterranean Youth Culture – an event sponsored by the Institute for the Mediterranean Architecture (IsAM).

The call for “Nausicaa Pavilion” is aimed at university students of architecture, design and fine arts in the Mediterranean countries – who may participate individually or in groups.

Competitors will be inspired by both the artistic and architectural heritage of the Mediterranean region, developing their interpretation in a contemporary way.

The competition is not only one of the most important contributions made by “Il Tamarindo” to the Euro-Mediterranean intercultural dialogue, but also a unique opportunity for networking among young Mediterranean people.

The most deserving projects will be at the core of some travelling exhibitions – the first of which will be displayed at the Universities of Catania - Siracusa and Milan (Politecnico) – starting from September 2011.

The winning project will also be advertised on “L’Arca” - international magazine of architecture, design and visual communication.

All interested students are kindly invited to submit their project proposals by July 8, 2011.

There is no membership fee.

For further information, please check the website www.nausicaafestival.net or contact us via email: pavilion@iltamarindo.net