DEPARTMENT OF ARCHITECTURE

SUMMER ARCHITECTURE WORKSHOP

TITLE

ALTERNATIVE DWELLING

TEACHING

Elia Zenghelis, Professor, Berlage Institute

Teaching assistants: Savina Derdelakou, Nikos Platsas, Michalis Softas

WHEN / WHERE

Saturday 1 September through Sunday 9 September 2012

St. Nicholas – Paou Monastery, Argalasti, Pelion, Greece

THEME

Participants will examine alternative ways of integrating dwelling to landscape; these could include educational installations and accommodation. The concept of integration in the landscape is projected neither with modest humility nor as an abandonment of architecture's jurisdiction but rather as an emphatic juxtaposition of the intrinsic properties and of the oppositions between the two. That is, of the dialectic that underpins and juxtaposes the constitution, on one hand, of the evolutionary dynamics of nature and, on the other, of the static balance of the human artifact.

WHO

The workshop is open to undergraduate students in the last years of their studies, to graduate students and to young architects (who have graduated in the last five years). Participants, 10 in total, will be selected on CV / portfolio basis.

STAY & COST

The workshop will take place in the Monastery of Paou in Pelion, Greece (www.monipaou.gr), where participants will also be housed. Included in the participation price (300 euros) are: tuition fees, stay, as well as a daily excursion in the area.

HOW TO APPLY

Please send your application (include a 2-page pdf with 150-words cv and sample of portfolio) to pelion.aw@gmail.com (deadline: 31 July, 2012).
